1. 次の英文を読んで設問に答えなさい。（解答は所定の解答欄に記入すること）

Every nurse has a special patient who he or she will never forget. No matter how much time passes or what the situation was, nurses can talk about their most unforgettable patients right away.

To make sure this was true, I asked a coworker a question. “If I asked you about your most unforgettable patient, could you tell me?” She answered almost immediately. “Yes. One day, I was taking care of a patient in the intensive care unit^{*1}. She held my hand and asked me not to leave because she did not want to die alone. She had no family, so I stayed by her bed all night until she died just before morning. She never let go of my hand.”

Your most unforgettable patient may remind you of happy memories or sad ones. However, one of the best things about being a nurse is the (①) you can share with patients.

What other job allows people to share such private, serious, and life-changing moments in someone’s life? Do you ever hear accountants^{*2} talk about their most unforgettable papers, or bank tellers^{*3} talk about their most unforgettable bank accounts^{*4}? (②).

（『英語を学ぶ看護学生に贈るStories for Nurses』看護の科学社, p. 15, 一部改変）

語注：*1 intensive care unit (集中治療室), *2 accountant (会計士),

*3 bank teller (銀行の窓口係), *4 bank account (銀行口座)
